

DIVISION OF GEOGRAPHIC NAMES

See work card

Adopted name Rainbow

Thing named and location point, alt. 9105 feet, Bryce Canyon National Park, Kane County, Utah; the headland at the end of the Bryce Rim Road, affording a sweeping view of the pink cliffs to the north, centering near

APPROVED

May 27, 1935

Names

Authorities lat. 37°28'20" N., long. 112°14'20" W.

Local usage

Rainbow Point

R. T. Evans, Topog. Engineer, 4/25/35

(over)

Submitted by National Park Service

Recommendation of Executive Committee

RainbowDate 4/25/35This card prepared by J.J.C.

"At present, the entire headland is called Rainbow Point, but as the name is becoming limited to the point at the parking loop terminus of the Bryce Rim Road, it is believed this point should be given a distinct name" - P.P.Patraw, Supt.
4/25/35.